TIP OF THE DAY

DISH RACK

Use a cookie sheet to catch drips, and your drying rack won't have to hover at the sink's edge anymore. Available at restaurant-supply stores, the sheet has one-inch vertical sides to prevent runoff wherever you place it. And since it's made of metal, it resists mildew better than a rubber tray or a dish towel.

Ask Martha! It's your chance to speak directly with Martha Stewart about cooking, entertaining, gardening, homekeeping, or just find out how she spent her weekend. 866-675-6675. Check this space for times.

Get invaluable pet advice from Martha's personal vet, expert tips and the latest trends in behavioral training, holistic care and much more – animal lovers can tune in to a wide variety of live call-in shows about how to care for their favorite animal friends Monday - Friday nights at 8:00 pm ET.

NEW: recipes for fantastic food from the great chefs you've heard on Martha Stewart Living Radio. Get recipes »

PROGRAMMING

UPCOMING HIGHLIGHTS

Green Getaways
Today 1:00 pm ET

Mary White, president of BnBfinder.com, is welcomed to Living Today to discuss green getaways. As they become increasingly more popular, innkeepers have risen to the challenge and can easily tailor guest services to those that are environmentally friendly. In fact, many inns are offering courses to teach guests how to implement these environmentally friendly techniques at home.
